No Invasion Pledge by U.S., Kennedy Asserts

U. S. Preparing to Announce Major Decision on Laos

No Immediate Prospect of Sending Troops, Officials Say

BY SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration was reported today on the verge of important decisions dealing with the strife in Laos. But officials ruled out any possibility U.S. troops would be sent there now.

The officials made clear, however, that every other range of action is under consideration. And President Kennedy may discuss possible courses of action when he meets with the National Security Council.

Kennedy described the Laos situation Friday as "most serious. It is a matter of the greatest concern to us."

Appeal Ignored

Addressing the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the President said the fact that pro-Communist forces have not heeded the call of neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma to halt attacks on neutralist troops "raised the question of the imminent destruction of the Geneva accords."

"We will have a chance to see in the next few days," Kennedy added.

The Geneva accords, signed by 14 nations, guaranteed Laos' neutrality under a coalition government. But fighting has broken out again. Pathet Lao pro-Communist forces are driving to smash neutralist troops in the strategic Plain des Jarres in east-central Laos. Its capture would solidify the pro-Communist domination of northern Laos.

Possible Alternatives

Loss of the Plain also would destroy the middle ground the neutralists occupied between the rightist and leftist armies.

There was speculation that the United States could either send back its forces into Thailand or call on other members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization to speed up the date for military maneuvers now scheduled for mid-June in northern Thailand.

The SEATO maneuvers, planned long before the current emergency, involve ground operations, paratroopers and air drops in a counterinsurgency exercise.

All eight SEATO nations are scheduled to take part in some phase of the operation—the United States, Thailand, the Philippines, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand, Britain and France.

Castro Says He Knew of Invasion Plan

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro says he armed his island with Soviet missiles because he knew of plans for a second invasion and now has proof he was right.

Making the most of the split between former exile leader Jose Miro Cardona and the Kennedy administration, Castro told the nation over television Friday night. "Now the whole world will know who was responsible for the Caribbean crisis."

He said Miro's lengthy resignation statement proved Cuba was right in preparing "to resist the new imperialist aggression."

Miro resigned Thursday as president of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, charging that Kennedy backed down on a promise for a second invasion. The U. S. State Department has described Miro's charges as "highly inaccurate and distorted."

Castro called Cuba's military pact with the Soviet Union one of several "just and necessary measures to brake the warlike and aggressive adventures." "Here are the proofs, written by no less than the head of the counter-revolutionaries," he said. "The government of Cuba, along with the Soviet government had knowledge of these plans for aggression against Cuba and thus in the month of June conversations were held between the representatives of the Soviet government and the Cuban government in respect to this situation and the measures to take," he added.

Spain Sends Red Leader to Firing Squad

Khrushchev Makes Vain Appeal for Franco's Clemency

MADRID (AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco's government announced today that Spanish Communist leader Julian Grimau Garcia was executed at dawn, despite a clemency appeal from Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The terse announcement by the Minister of Information gave no details. It came nearly two hours after Grimau's defense attorney, Amindino Rodriguez Armandia, and police sources said the Red leader had been shot by a firing squad.

Police informants said Grimau was quiet and composed as he went before the firing squad in the courtyard of Carabanchel prison.

Convicted As Terrorist

Grimau, convicted of military terrorism during the Spanish civil war, refused both confession and boy communion, the informants said. Nevertheless a priest stood by.

British Labor party member of Parliament John Mendelson said "It was the worst miscarriage of justice in many years."

The firing squad was manned by troops of the "Wad Ras" regiment from Spanish Morocco, the sources said.

Grimau, 52, was convicted Thursday of heading a drumhead court during the 1936-39 civil war. It sent many Franco supporters to their deaths.

Grimau returned from exile in France last November and was Turn to Page 3 Col. 7

Coast Guard Rescues 3 Adrift for 24 Hours

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Three Bayfield, Wis., men aboard an excursion boat on Lake Superior were rescued by a Coast Guard cutter Friday night after being adrift 24 hours.

The 65-foot motor vessel Chipewa, en route from Duluth Superior to Bayfield, developed mechanical trouble about 50 miles from the twin ports. On board were the owner, Robert Wehr, his brother Bud, and the skipper, Laurie Nourse.

They were adrift in a field of floating ice before the cutter Woodrush found them, some 24 miles off shore from Cornucopia, Wis.

President Also Rules Out Any Federation Action to Stop Steel Price Boosts

BY STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has denied ever promising a U.S. invasion of Cuba and has ruled out that kind of venture now.

"It would be a mistake," he said. "Time will see Cuba free again," the President told the American Society of Newspaper Editors Friday, "and I think when that happens the record will show that the United States has played a significant role."

The President also ruled out another kind of venture: an administration onslaught against the steel industry for raising prices last week.

Kennedy described the boosts as selected price increases that were "responsive to market situations."

"It represents, really, about a 1 per cent price increase for steel products which restores, really, the 1 per cent that has been lost since 1939 in the price of steel," Kennedy told the editors.

But the President said he was concerned about the psychological effect of the increase and hoped steel-using manufacturers would absorb the new costs and not pass them on to the public.

"I know the steel industry, it seems to me, has acted with some restraint in this case, which I think is very useful," he said. "I am hopeful that other companies, particularly in the auto industry, will act with similar restraint, and that the union itself will guide its conduct in accordance with its long-range interest, which is the national interest."

Cuba Center of Interest

But the editors, while curious whether the country would see a repeat of the Kennedy-steel battle of last year, seemed more concerned about Cuba than steel prices. At least, the bulk of their questions, submitted in writing, touched on the Communist state of Fidel Castro.

Kennedy was asked to comment on the accusation by Cuban refugee leader Jose Miro Cardona that Kennedy had reneged on a promise to invade Cuba.

"Nobody in the United States government ever informed any one in the government or outside the government, Dr. Cardona or anyone else, that we were going to launch a military invasion with six divisions," the President said. Kennedy said "the United States cannot launch itself into a massive invasion of Cuba without considering the world-wide implications."

Alleges Big Payoff For Liquor License

Playboy Clubs Operator Tells Of Extortion in New York City

NEW YORK (AP)—Hugh M. Hefner, who operates Playboy clubs in six major U.S. cities, charges that his club in New York City had to pay off big to get a liquor license.

Hefner's accusation of extortion threw another bomb into the growing scandal of bribery and corruption attributed to the State Liquor Authority.

A special Manhattan grand jury has been investigating for several months a purported million-dollar-a-year SLA graft operation in the metropolitan area.

Alleges Corruption

Hefner, who heads a Playboy Club empire that expects to expand to six more cities in the coming year, said, "Only in New York were we met with frustrating administrative corruption on such a level that it was impossible to ignore."

"We paid," he added, "not as an illicit enterprise to secure illegal or improper favors, but as honest operators trying to secure our legal rights."

"Our only mistake was in not finding some honest official to whom we could plead our case, but the corruption was so extensive and on such a level that we were made to feel that we had nowhere to turn."

"However, the Playboy Club executives who were forced to pay for what they were already legally entitled to are no more guilty of 'conspiracy' than the parent who pays the kidnaper for the return of his child before calling the police. We had a $4 million 'baby' at stake."

Hefner's statement, dictated from his Chicago office—headquarters of the Playboy entertainment empire—was released Friday night at a news conference at the plush New York club, which opened four months ago.

The statement followed by a day the indictment by the special grand jury of a former Chicago night club operator, Ralph Berger, 57. He was accused of arranging for a $79,000 payoff for the Playboy Club's license here.

License Threatened

Hefner's statement was read by Victor Lowmes III, president of the New York operation. It apparently was issued in response to reports that the SLA, at its next meeting Wednesday, was threatening to revoke the liquor license granted the club.

Hefner said Playboy Club executives "cooperated to the fullest extent" with Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan's SLA probe. This, he noted, was in response to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's "personal assurance that no economic reprisals would be suffered by such cooperating licensees."

600 Convicts In New Rioting

Prison Guard Held As Hostage During Night of Violence

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (AP)—More than 600 convicts in a maximum security penitentiary here began fresh rioting early this morning, after a night of violence in which a prison guard was taken hostage.

Some 300 prisoners barricaded in a cell block began rioting afresh after a temporary lull, and were joined by 300 prisoners locked in their cells. Observers said the inmates were smashing windows and breaking "everything they could get their hands on."

Warden Tom Hall said a guard was being held hostage at knife-point in an auditorium building where 12 to 15 inmates were barricaded. Hall described those in the auditorium as very dangerous.

Tear Gas Used

Police and guards lobbed tear gas shells repeatedly into the big main block building.

There were at least 150 policemen on the scene.

All available members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the lower British Columbia mainland were summoned to the prison to join extra police and guards in an attempt to quell the rioting.

Hall said the new violence broke out after negotiations for a settlement of the violence were almost successful. He said per-

The Highway Patrol said two bodies have been recovered and seven persons are missing.

"Eleven men in the small outboard fishing boat when it overturned about midnight, the Highway Patrol said.

The bodies of Mrs. Ola Pruitt, 47, and John Caves, 2, a grandchild, were recovered about dawn, the Highway Patrol said.

Reported missing are Mrs. Olla Mae Caves, 15, mother of John; El Caves, 5; Monk Caves, about 3, and Billy Caves, 7.

Must First Find Wreck

Men and Cameras in Bathyscaphe May Help Solve Thresher Mystery

BY ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The eyes of men and cameras in the bathyscaphe Trieste may provide the only factual evidence of why the nuclear submarine Thresher sank in a mile and a half of Atlantic water, carrying 129 persons down with her.

Even that is uncertain, depending on other factors—among them the question of whether the wreck will be located.

Long Search Probable

"It is going to be very difficult to find the Thresher," Rear Adm. John S. McCain, chief of Navy information and a veteran submariner, said Friday night.

He added the search may go on for weeks or months in the effort to locate, by scientific devices, the exact spot more than 8,000 feet down where the remains of the lost submarine rests.

And the skipper of the Trieste, Lt. Cmdr. Donald L. Keach, makes plain that unless the wreck can be located first the bathy-scaphe can't be used. If the Thresher is located, the bathyscaphe can provide visual and photographic data which might show what happened as she plunged deep down after beginning a test dive.

Keach was in Washington Friday, stopping en route to Boston where the Trieste, aboard a dock ship, is due on April 27. He met reporters in a news conference and gave them, through a briefing and pictures, a detailed account of the nature and history of the weird-looking research ship.

Here, in substance, is what his description, pictures and prepared data showed:

The Trieste was purchased in 1958 by the Navy from its developers, Dr. Auguste Piccard and his son Jacques, for use by the Office of Naval Research. It was put into operation in December of that year and since then has made scores of dives.

In 1960 the Trieste, substantially in its present form but using a different gondola, descended to the deepest known part of any ocean—to 35,700 feet in the Marianas Trench off the island of Guam.

The over-all length of the Trieste is 58 feet, the outside diameter of its hull 11 feet. With the exception of the gondola for the crew and certain cameras and other equipment mounted on the outside of the structure, all portions of the Trieste are "floable." This means that as the Trieste descends, water or ballast fills all space. The pressure thus is equalized.

Reminiscent Submarine

It looks vaguely like a true submarine—but with clusters of piping, wires, sonar transducers, camera housing and lights—plus the steel ball of the gondola suspended beneath—hanging on the exterior.

It is stubby, with none of the sleek lines of a combat submarine. But it can drop down

Yale's President Dies of Cancer

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A Whitney Griswold, a lean, dedicated Yankee who brought a new look at the Yale University campus during his 13 years as president is dead at 56.

Griswold, a champion of academic freedom, liberal arts, modern architecture and higher pay for teachers, died at his home Friday of cancer.

He graduated from Yale in 1929, received his doctorate there in 1933 and taught history at Yale until he was tapped for the presidency in 1950.

Griswold was an outspoken critic of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and once referred to "McCarthyism" as "uninformed vigilance, the watchful eye in the empty head."

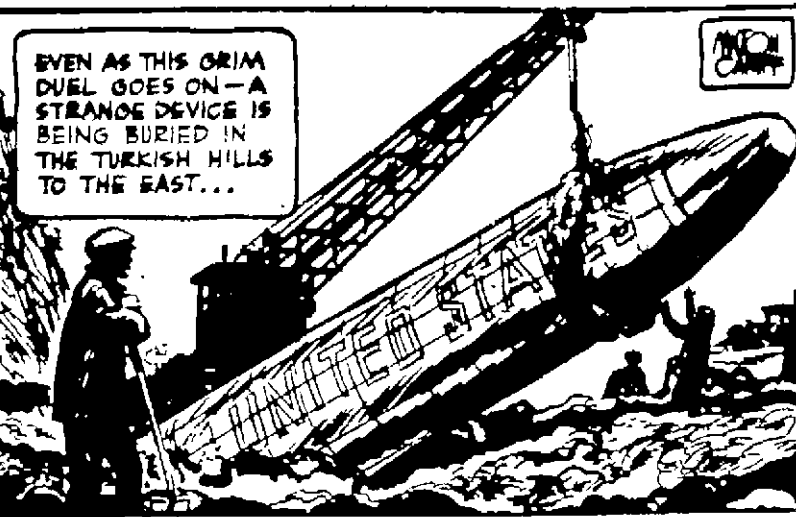

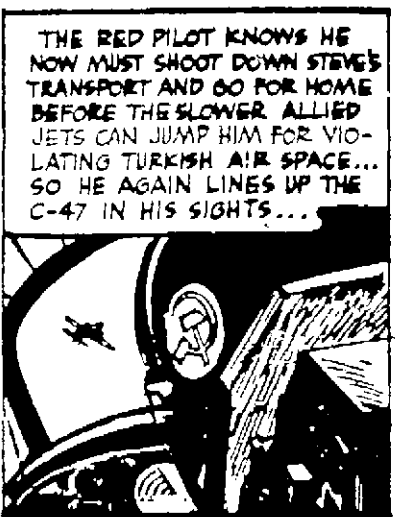

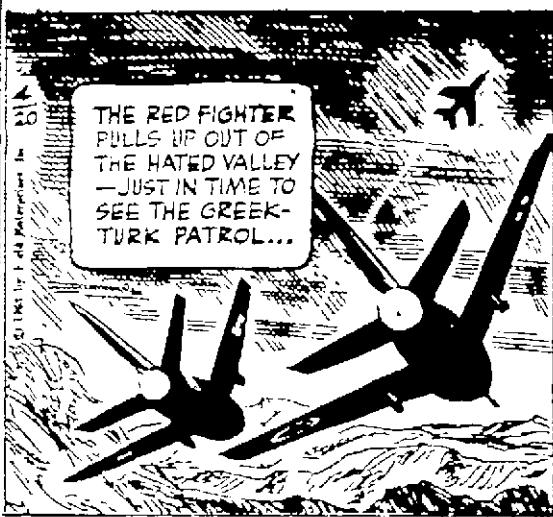

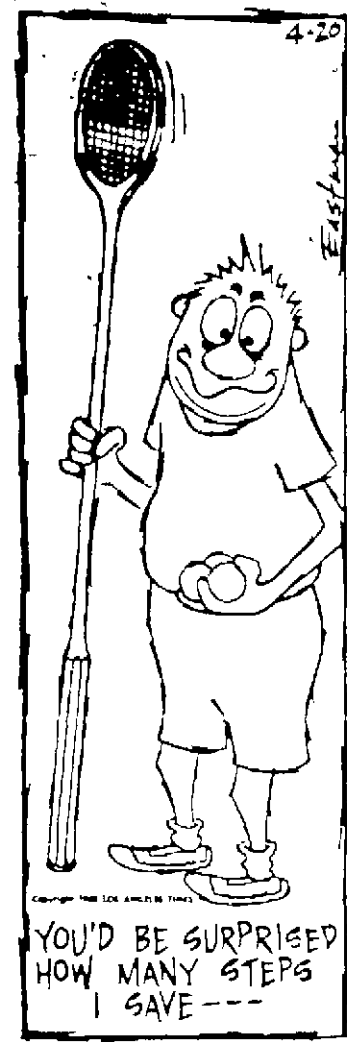

In 1959 he was a leading opponent of the disclaimer affidavit required of students who applied for aid under the national defense education act.

New Table Tennis Idea; Wire Rings for Paddle!

BY CAPPY DICK

Today's fun-project will put new zing in your next table tennis game. The reason is that you will use paddles made of wire coat hangers. Believe me it's a lot harder to hit the ball with a paddle that is only a ring of wire than it is to hit it with a solid paddle of wood.

of it to form a handle. Figure 3 shows a game in progress. To serve the ball, you must hit it with the edge of the wire ring. To return the ball to your opponent you must hit it with any part of the wire—the ring or the handle. If you don't aim just right the ball will go through the ring.

It will amaze you the number of times you take a fast swipe at the ball only to find it going through the ring. With practice, of course you can become skilled at striking the ball with the wire. However, you can never be sure it will bounce straight forward. It will may ricochet to one side or the other.

You will discover some peculiar traits of the ball. For example, when you hit it squarely with the edge of the ring, you may give it a special spin that will cause the ball to bound back toward you when it hits your opponent's side of the table.

Table tennis is a tricky game at best. Coat hanger paddles will make it even trickier!

the Board of American Missions, also attended.

The constitution for the congregation was adopted and the first church council was elected at the business meeting. Church council members are Jarvis Girard, Ben Mundt, John Law, Wesley Westbrook, C. A. Brockman, Edward Champeau, Maynard Kunschke and Richard Van De Weghe, all of Appleton; Ronald Budweiser, Zel Kopitzke, Gerald Loehning and Gary Mortensen, all of Menasha. Officers will be elected at the first meeting of the council.

All signers of the charter membership petition were asked to attend the business meeting, and voted to formally organize the congregation with the Wisconsin Upper Michigan Synod. Dr. Matson addressed the congregation on its relationship to the total church.

Dr. Matson appointed the Rev. Ralph Sandgren, pastor of Our Saviour Lutheran Church, Appleton, as vice-pastor of the congregation.

The formal reception of charter members will be held during the two worship services Sunday with the declaration that Our Redeemer is formally constituted and organized. Sunday school will be held as usual, but instead of the adult class the congregation will have refreshments in the church annex and an informal reception for Pastor Wahl.

The organization banquet will be held at the Fox Valley Coop Banquet Hall at 1:30 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Champeau and Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Bonnell are chairmen.

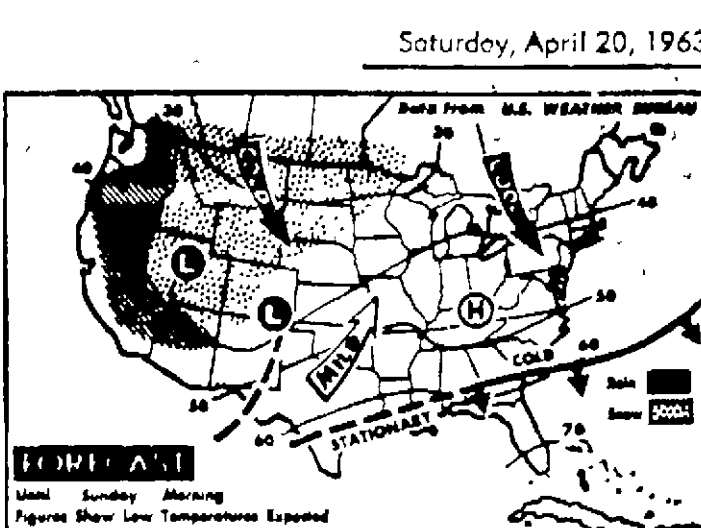

The installation of the new church council will be held during the vesper service at 7:30 p.m. at the church.

The first confirmation service at Our Redeemer will be held at the 11 a.m. worship service on Sunday, April 28, with five persons to be confirmed.

The congregation is now securing property for a building site and hopes to start building about next spring. Pastor Briggs said the Board of American Missions says that every new congregation should be in a building two years from its organization date.

Also participating in the program will be one of the students from Lawrence College who has participated in the local effort protesting the use of racial discriminatory practices by certain business establishments in the South.

Lawrence Students' Faculty Member to Attend Meeting

Six Lawrence College students and one faculty member attended a conference on "The Warless World" from Friday and today at Wingspread, the conference center of the Johnson Foundation in Racine.

Attending the conference conducted by the Associated Colleges of the Midwest are John Donnelly, Cedar Rapids, Ia., John M. Davis, South Norwalk, Conn., Barbara Finstrom, Aurora, Ill., Michael Gannett Jr., West Corn Wall, Conn., Mary-Claire Vander Wall, East Grand Rapids, Mich., and Nicholas Vogel, Fargo, N.D.

Dr. Mojmir Povoly of the government department accompanied the group.

Prior to the conference the participants read the articles in "A Warless World" that have appeared thus far in the Saturday Review Symposium. The series includes articles by Arnold Toynbee, Walter Millis, Kenneth Boulding, Arthur Larson and Grenville Clark.

The 20 articles begin with the assumption that disarmament has been accomplished and an international police force has been established. The symposium asks whether such a system could work. Among the questions it raised are these: Would repression and unemployment result from disarmament? Would existing political and economic relations be frozen, and change—perhaps progress—be ruled out? If a warless world is to be a reality, what is required?

Among the speakers at the conference are Walter Millis of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, The Fund for the Republic, Wassily W. Leontief, director of the economic research project, Harvard University, and Dr. Maurice L. Albertson, director of the research foundation, Colorado State University. Discussion leaders will be Donald E. Stewart, assistant editor of the Encyclopedia Britannica, and Professor Lester M. McAllister, of Beloit College, recently a staff member at the National War College. Robert W. Gibson, president of Monmouth College, is the conference chairman.

Bergstrom Sales, Earnings Decline In First Quarter

NEENAH — A decline of approximately 3 per cent in first quarter sales of Bergstrom Paper Co., in relation to the corporation's first quarter of 1962, was reported today by officers of the firm which manufactures book offset office printing and safety paper.

The three month sales figure was $3,210,307 for the first quarter of 1963, down from $3,312,074 of a year ago.

Net earnings amounted to 33 cents per share for the period compared to 35 cents for the first quarter of 1962 after reflecting the higher depreciation rates now in effect. "Our return on stockholders' investment," the report states, "is a comfortable 9.1 per cent after the new depreciations."

The message of H. R. Moore, company president, continues: "market place prices were not higher and were more competitive. Costs are not lower, they are rising. It is becoming more difficult in the industry to offset cost increases by cutting costs and by technical improvements. The answer is a price increase. The question is when?"

Couple Sentenced For Not Sending Child to School

A Bear Creek housewife was sentenced to 15 days in the Outagamie County jail and her husband was placed on one year probation to the state department of public welfare Friday for not sending their 13-year-old daughter to school.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oshefsky pleaded guilty to the charge April 11 when they appeared before County Judge Gustave Keller. Testimony showed their daughter Judy, had attended only 10 days of school in 1963. Judge Keller ordered the girl to attend school April 12. On the following day, however, she ran away from home and was gone all day and night.

She was taken to the Outagamie County jail and held for a juvenile court hearing where once again Wednesday she was ordered by Judge Raymond P. Dohr to attend school Wednesday afternoon. She did not attend school that day and Thursday was taken back to juvenile detention by Sheriff Calvin Spivey.

The family moved to Bear Creek Dec. 19 and Judy was registered in school Jan. 14 but was absent the first day of school, and attended sporadically since.

Children Prepare For Bicycle Tests

Knowledge of Safety Regulations, Riding Skill Will be Demonstrated

If children were seen zig-zagging on bicycles around playground areas this week, chances are they were preparing for one of the obstacle tests that will be given next week as part of Bicycle Safety Week.

The safety committee of the Appleton schools, in cooperation with the Noon Optimist Club and the Appleton police department, is planning bicycle safety tests in four central locations, beginning Monday and continuing through Thursday, April 25. All public and parochial elementary school children are invited to test their skills. Those who complete the tests successfully will be awarded a skill certificate.

The tests will be administered between 4 and 6 p.m. The local schedule is as follows: Monday, April 22, Franklin Elementary School playground; Tuesday, April 23, McKinley Elementary School playground; Wednesday, April 24, Edison Elementary School playground; Thursday, April 25, Lincoln Elementary School playground.

Various Techniques

The young riders will be tested on balancing technique, pedaling and braking, signaling, mounting, dismounting, and on a straight line and obstacle course. The procedures and the standards for success, plus layout maps, have been distributed to teachers for instruction before the tests start.

Traffic Signaling

The most important skill technique is that of balance. The riders must start from a standstill and very slowly ride down a 60 by 3-foot lane in not less than 30 seconds, with neither foot touching the lines on either side. Neither foot of the cyclist can touch the ground and the brake must not be applied excessively. Pedaling and braking techniques will be demonstrated on a 100 by 25-foot surface. The balls of the feet must be kept parallel to the ground during pedaling and the rear wheel cannot be skidded in braking. The children must also dismount and park their bikes properly after this test.

Another test of skill will be to

May Approve Sweepstakes in New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—The Granite State—New Hampshire—long a bastion of Yankee conservatism, appears on the verge of taking a gamble on a sweepstakes to boost state revenues.

Both houses of the Republican-controlled legislature have passed the controversial bill establishing a state-operated sweepstakes.

Sometime next week, the House, which passed the bill by a 215-151 vote Thursday, will send the measure to Democratic Gov. John W. King.

If King does not veto the bill, it automatically becomes law five legislative days after reaching his desk.

The law would make New Hampshire the only state in the nation operating a sweepstakes.

The first Democrat elected governor of New Hampshire in 40 years, King has refused to say what he will do, but he has told questioners that he voted for sweepstakes bills twice while in the legislature.

Lake Catalog Can't Be Made by July 1, State Office Says

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The conservation department has declared flatly that it will be unable to publish a classified catalog of Wisconsin lakes by July 1 of this year, as asked in a pending legislative resolution offered by Assemblyman Romell of Adams County and Hunk of Tony.

The department made its reply in a fiscal note covering the probable cost of such a publication, as required under legislative rules.

The fiscal note said that a classification study of recreational lakes has been underway for the last two years, and that at least six more years will be required to complete the work under present budgetary arrangements.

This far lake inventories for 12 counties have been completed, the legislature was told.

that it had received two machinery contracts for more than $1 million each. One involves 50 crawler tractors for a farm mechanization project in the state of Sao Paulo, Brazil, and the other two 55,000-horsepower hydraulic turbines for the Army Engineers, to be used in the Williamette River Basin project in Oregon.

Doolittle Raiders at Anniversary Reunion

BY PAUL WELLS

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) In this age of nuclear armament, rockets, satellites and space probes, a small group of men talked Friday of 30 seconds in which 16 tons of bombs turned the psychological tide of a war.

Gathered for their 21st anniversary reunion were 30 of the 56 still-living Doolittle Raiders who stunned Japan with a daylight strike against Tokyo and nearby military targets April 18, 1942. Eighty in all took part.

They were to be joined by their leader, Lt. Gen. James H. (Jim)

College Station To Carry Panel On Civil Rights

A round-table discussion of the civil rights issue, as it relates to petitions being circulated in downtown Appleton by Lawrence College students will be broadcast over WLPM, the college FM station, at 9 p. m. Sunday.

Ellis Busch, a Lawrence student, will moderate the discussion.

The six-member panel will consist of four students, William Barton, Jerry Lincoln, Bruce Dickson and Ned Carleton; the Rev. William Charland, assistant pastor of the First Congregational church; and Mejmur Poulouy, associate professor of government at Lawrence college.

Divorce Attorney to Handle Wife's Suit

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Attorney Walter A. Nielsen, 53, who has tried more than 300 divorce cases in 30 years, had still another client today—his wife.

Nielsen filed a divorce petition charging extreme cruelty on behalf of Vesta Nielsen, 51, against himself.

The attorney said he will represent his wife "just as though she were a complete stranger. We've been as far apart from each other as the astronauts are from the moon."

Nielsen, who said he'll also represent himself, will not contest the divorce.

(my) Doolittle, retired from active duty but still dynamic at 66.

(Charles McClure, 825 E. Alton St., one of the two raiders who have attended every reunion, is in Seattle for the annual affair. McClure flew to Seattle from Ohio, where he was on business, Wednesday and will return to Ohio before coming back to Appleton at the end of next week.)

Friday was the high point of this latest in a series of reunions started in North Africa in 1945 when Doolittle commanded the 12th Air Force in World War II.

At a $25-a-plate, black-tie dinner, Doolittle introduced the raiders; Maj. Gen. Perry M. Houghton read messages from Air Secretary Eugene Zuckert and Gen. Curtis LeMay, Air Force chief of staff; the raiders' two motor vehicle traffic safety awards were presented, and the winner of their $1,500 graduate college scholarship was announced.

Well-known is the story of the daring raid on Tokyo from the carrier Hornet 620 miles away, and how it gave a boundless boost to American morale in the dark days of the war.

Often told, too, has been the tale of how the lumbering twin-engine B25 medium bombers had to take off eight hours ahead of schedule because the carrier had been sighted by Japanese fishing boats; how some ran out of gas over China and the crews had to bail out.

Three were killed then and eight were captured by the Japanese. They later excused the and on died in prison. Five were interned in the Soviet Union when they landed in Vladivostok. The rest made their way back to freedom.

None of the raiders had died in the past year. But each man here will drink a toast today in a special silver cup to comrades who are gone.

Ban on Paddling in District of Columbia Remains in Effect

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ban on paddling of students stays in force in District of Columbia schools under a 5-4 vote taken by the school board after heated debate on a corporal punishment proposal by Supt. Carl F. Hanson.

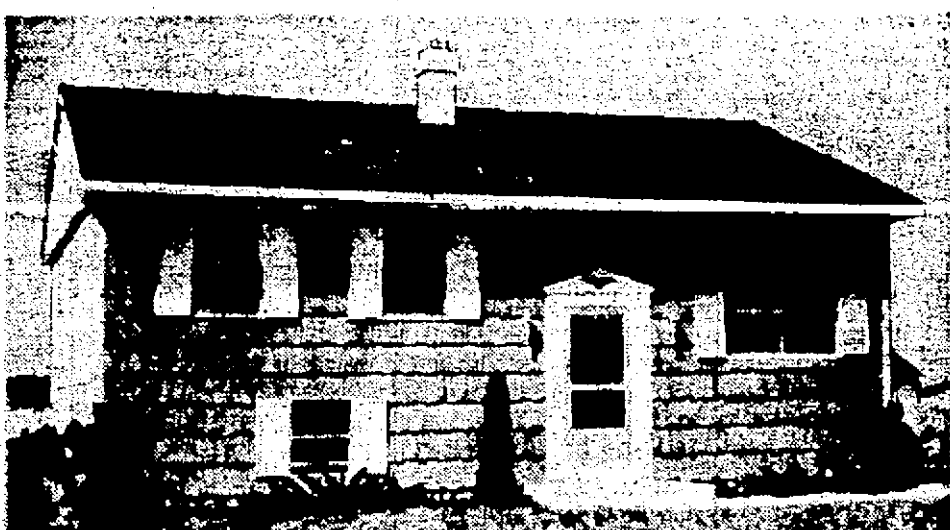

The board in a long session did, however, go along with Hanson's disciplinary suggestions to the extent of voting for indefinite suspension of unruly pupils. But that has to lie over until the May meeting, awaiting a ruling on how it squares with the capital's laws.

Much of the heat in the discussion was generated by Mordere Johnson, former president of Howard University and a board member. Johnson, in a 30-minute speech, accused Hanson of being "out of touch" with disciplinary problems before the Thanksgiving Day football game riot that precipitated the discipline issue. The melee in D.C. Stadium broke out after a championship game between one school attended preponderantly by Negroes and another made up mostly of whites.

No Invasion Pledge by U.S., Kennedy Asserts

U. S. Preparing to Announce Major Decision on Laos

No Immediate Prospect of Sending Troops, Officials Say

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration was reported today on the verge of important decisions dealing with the strife in Laos. But officials ruled out any possibility U.S. troops would be sent there now.

The officials made clear, however, that every other range of action is under consideration. And President Kennedy may discuss possible courses of action when he meets with the National Security Council.

Kennedy described the Laos situation Friday as "most serious." It is a matter of the greatest concern to us.

Appeal Ignored

Addressing the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the President said the fact that pro-Communist forces have not heeded the call of neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma to halt attacks on neutralist troops "raised the question of the imminent destruction of the Geneva accords."

"We will have a chance to see in the next few days," Kennedy added.

The Geneva accords, signed by 14 nations, guaranteed Laos' neutrality under a coalition government.

But, fighting has broken out again. Pathet Lao pro-Communist forces are driving to smash neutralist troops, in the strategic Plain des Jarres in east-central Laos. Its capture would solidify the pro-Communist domination of northern Laos.

Possible Alternatives

Loss of the Plain also would destroy the middle ground the neutralists occupied between the rightist and leftist armies.

There was speculation that the United States could either send back its forces into Thailand or call on other members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization to speed up the date for military maneuvers now scheduled for mid-June in northern Thailand.

The SEATO maneuvers, planned long before the current emergency, involve ground operations, paratroopers and air drops in a counterinsurgency exercise.

All eight SEATO nations are scheduled to take part in some phase of the operation—the United States, Thailand, the Philippines, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand, Britain and France.

Pusey to Receive Boston College Honorary Degree

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy makes a quick visit to his home state today to speak at an academic convocation climaxing Centennial Week at Boston College.

Boston College, established by the Jesuit order in 1863, has grown in the century from a single building in downtown Boston to a complex of 27 buildings on a 200-acre campus in suburban Newton.

The Very Rev. Michael P. Walsh, S. J., president of the college, announced in advance the names of three persons to be awarded honorary degrees at the convocation.

They are Nathan M. Pusey, president of Harvard University; and former president of Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis.; the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., president of Georgetown University, oldest Jesuit university in the nation; and Barbara Ward, British economist.

President Kennedy received an honorary degree from Boston College while he was a U.S. senator from Massachusetts.

Must First Find Wreck

WASHINGTON (AP)—The eyes of men and cameras in the bathyscaphe Trieste may provide the only factual evidence of why the nuclear submarine Thresher sank in a mile and a half of Atlantic water, carrying 129 persons down with her.

Even that is uncertain, depending on other factors—among them the question of whether the wreck will be located.

Long Search Probable

"It is going to be very difficult to find the Thresher," Rear Adm. John S. McCain, chief of Navy information and a veteran submariner, said Friday night.

He added the search may go on for weeks or months in the effort to locate, by scientific devices, the exact spot more than 8,000 feet down where the remains of the lost submarine rests.

And the skipper of the Trieste, Lt. Cmdr. Donald L. Keach, makes plain that unless the wreck can be located first the bathyscaphe can't be used. If the Thresher is located, the bathyscaphe can provide visual and photographic data which might show what happened as she plunged deep down after beginning a test dive.

Keach was in Washington Friday, stopping en route to Boston where the Trieste, aboard a dock ship, is due on April 27. He met reporters in a news conference and gave them, through a briefing and pictures, a detailed account of the nature and history of the weird-looking research ship.

Here, in substance, is what his description, pictures and prepared data showed:

The Trieste was purchased in 1958 by the Navy from its developers, Dr. Auguste Piccard and his son Jacques, for use by the Office of Naval Research. It was put into operation in December of that year and since then has made scores of dives.

In 1960 the Trieste, substantially in its present form but using a

Resembles Submarine

It is stubby, with none of the sleek lines of a combat submarine. But it can drop down

Yale's President Dies of Cancer

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A. Whitney Griswold, a lean, dedicated Yankee who brought a new look at the Yale University campus during his 13 years as president, is dead at 56.

Griswold, a champion of academic freedom, liberal arts, modern architecture and higher pay for teachers, died at his home Friday of cancer.

He graduated from Yale in 1929, received his doctorate there in 1933 and taught history at Yale until he was tapped for the presidency in 1950.

Griswold was an outspoken critic of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and once referred to "McCarthyism" as "uninformed vigilance; the watchful eye in the empty head."

In 1950 he was a leading opponent of the disclaimer affidavit required of students who applied for aid under the national defense education act.

Spain Sends Red Leader to Firing Squad

MADRID (AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco's government announced today that Spanish Communist leader Julian Grimau was executed at a firing squad in spite of a clemency appeal from Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The terse announcement by the Minister of Information came nearly two hours after Grimau's defense attorney, Amindino Rodriguez Armandia, and police sources said the Red leader had been shot by a firing squad.

Police informants said Grimau was quiet and composed as he went before the firing squad in the courtyard of Carabanchel prison.

Convicted As Terrorist

Grimau, convicted of military terrorism during the Spanish civil war, refused both confession and holy communion, the informants said. Nevertheless a priest stood by.

British Labor party member of Parliament John Mendenhall said "It was the worst miscarriage of justice in many years."

The firing squad was manned by troops of the "Wad Ras" regiment from Spanish Morocco, the sources said.

Grimau, 52, was convicted Thursday of heading a drumhead court during the 1936-39 civil war. It sent many Franco supporters to their deaths.

Grimau returned from exile in France last November and was

Coast Guard Rescues 3 Adrift for 24 Hours

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Three Bayfield, Wis., men aboard an excursion boat on Lake Superior were rescued by a Coast Guard cutter Friday night after being adrift 24 hours.

The 65-foot motor vessel Chipewa, en route from Duluth Superior to Bayfield, developed mechanical trouble about 50 miles from the twin ports. On board were the owner, Robert Weber, his brother Bud, and the skipper, Laurie Nourse.

They were adrift in a field of floating ice before the cutter Woodrush found them, some 21 miles off shore from Cornucopia, Wis.

Editors Will Hear Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who angrily swore off press conferences last November, prepared today to face the questions of 300 newspaper editors.

Nixon shared top billing with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara at the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, which yesterday heard President Kennedy defend his Cuba policies.

When Nixon said goodbye to public life after failing to win the governorship of California last fall, he bitterly denounced the press for what he called its unfair treatment of his campaign.

He told reporters: "You won't have Nixon to kick around any longer. Because this, gentlemen, is my last press conference."

His vow lasted exactly four months, on March 7 he told a news conference in Chicago he would campaign enthusiastically for Republicans in 1964.

At the editors session today Nixon reportedly planned to deliver a 20-minute prepared speech and then preside at a question-and-answer session as Kennedy did yesterday.

Castro Says He Knew of Invasion Plan

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro says he armed his island with Soviet missiles because he knew of plans for a second invasion and now has proof he was right.

Making the most of the split between former exile leader Jose Miro Cardona and the Kennedy administration, Castro told the nation over television Friday night, "Now the whole world will know who was responsible for the Caribbean crisis."

He said Miro's lengthy resignation statement proved Cuba was right in preparing "to resist the new imperialist aggression."

Miro resigned Thursday as president of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, charging that Kennedy backed down on a promise for a second invasion.

The U. S. State Department has described Miro's charges as "highly inaccurate and distorted."

Castro called Cuba's military pact with the Soviet Union one of several "just and necessary measures to brake the warlike and aggressive adventures."

"Here are the proofs, written by no less than the head of the counterrevolutionaries," he said.

"The government of Cuba, along with the Soviet government had knowledge of these plans for aggression against Cuba and thus in the month of June conversations were held between the representatives of the Soviet government and the Cuban government in respect to this situation and the measures to take," he added.

Castro Says He Knew of Invasion Plan

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro says he armed his island with Soviet missiles because he knew of plans for a second invasion and now has proof he was right.

Making the most of the split between former exile leader Jose Miro Cardona and the Kennedy administration, Castro told the nation over television Friday night, "Now the whole world will know who was responsible for the Caribbean crisis."

He said Miro's lengthy resignation statement proved Cuba was right in preparing "to resist the new imperialist aggression."

Miro resigned Thursday as president of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, charging that Kennedy backed down on a promise for a second invasion.

The U. S. State Department has described Miro's charges as "highly inaccurate and distorted."

Castro called Cuba's military pact with the Soviet Union one of several "just and necessary measures to brake the warlike and aggressive adventures."

"Here are the proofs, written by no less than the head of the counterrevolutionaries," he said.

"The government of Cuba, along with the Soviet government had knowledge of these plans for aggression against Cuba and thus in the month of June conversations were held between the representatives of the Soviet government and the Cuban government in respect to this situation and the measures to take," he added.

MADRID (AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco's government announced today that Spanish Communist leader Julian Grimau was executed at a firing squad in spite of a clemency appeal from Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The terse announcement by the Minister of Information came nearly two hours after Grimau's defense attorney, Amindino Rodriguez Armandia, and police sources said the Red leader had been shot by a firing squad.

Police informants said Grimau was quiet and composed as he went before the firing squad in the courtyard of Carabanchel prison.

Convicted As Terrorist

Grimau, convicted of military terrorism during the Spanish civil war, refused both confession and holy communion, the informants said. Nevertheless a priest stood by.

British Labor party member of Parliament John Mendenhall said "It was the worst miscarriage of justice in many years."

The firing squad was manned by troops of the "Wad Ras" regiment from Spanish Morocco, the sources said.

Grimau, 52, was convicted Thursday of heading a drumhead court during the 1936-39 civil war. It sent many Franco supporters to their deaths.

President Also Rules Out Any Federation Action to Stop Steel Price Boosts

BY STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has denied ever promising a U.S. invasion of Cuba and has ruled out that kind of venture now.

"It would be a mistake," he said.

But "time will see Cuba free again," the President told the American Society of Newspaper Editors Friday, "and I think when that happens the record will show that the United States has played a significant role."

The President also ruled out another kind of venture: an administration onslaught against the steel industry for raising prices last week.

Kennedy described the boosts as selected price increases that were "responsive to market situations."

"It represents, really, about a 1 per cent price increase for steel products which restores, really, the 1 per cent that has been lost since 1958 in the price of steel," Kennedy told the editors.

But the President said he was concerned about the psychological effect of the increase and hoped steel-using manufacturers would absorb the new costs and not pass them on to the public.

"I know the steel industry, it seems to me, has acted with some restraint in this case, which I think is very useful," he said. "I am hopeful that other companies, particularly in the auto industry, will act with similar restraint, and that the union itself will guide its conduct in accordance with its long-range interest, which is the national interest."

Youth Crimes Topic of Talk

Sheriff Frazier Says Juveniles Need Guidance

WAUPACA — Sheriff Loran Frazier outlined the methods of dealing with juvenile problems Thursday night when he spoke at a meeting of the Sodality at St. Mary Magdalene Catholic Church parlors.

Children who come from normal homes receive proper training and usually know how to behave correctly. Others, he said, are left to shift by themselves with no parental control or discipline and have problems.

Rehabilitate Youth

Sheriff Frazier said police often are criticized for not imposing prison sentences on youthful offenders. He cited figures to show it is better and cheaper to try to rehabilitate youths by probation, psychiatric treatment or youth schools rather than putting them in prison.

Spice Asks for Two More Investigators In Sheriff's Office

Committee Suggests Increasing Staff to Meet Rising Demand

A committee of the Outagamie County board will request the board's approval of adding two sheriff department investigators to the sheriff's department sometime this summer.

The county's courts and administration committee favorably approved Sheriff Calvin Spice's recommendation that the department be bolstered by one new investigator, then quickly added a recommendation for a second investigator. The committee met with Spice today to discuss the personnel situation.

Spice said requests for service from his department has increased three-fold since 1955. He said since January, the department has received over 420 requests for investigations.

None Since '51

The department has not added investigators since 1951 when Sheriff Lt. Jack Frenz was transferred from the traffic department to the investigation branch. One other investigator, Lt. Jack Zuelke, makes up the fulltime investigation staff.

Spice and Undersheriff Norbert Marx also investigate complaints received in the department, but Spice said Marx's time is consumed with serving process papers. Spice said his own time is taken up in administration and office chores.

At least one of the prospective investigators would be a juvenile investigating officer, the committee decided. Salaries, although not set by the committee, would range between $365 and $415 per month.

Spice said the sheriff's department load is increased by requests for investigations from Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer. The district attorney's office has no investigator assigned and all investigations originating in the district attorney's office must go through the sheriff's department. Spice said his department is able to handle only "the most urgent of the district attorney's cases."

Communism Follows No Pattern

One of the areas of disagreement between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-Tung is how best to go about burying the capitalist nations of the world and taking over the underdeveloped which have not yet set patterns of government in firm molds. The theories are currently having a workout in Southeast Asia and Khrushchev seems to be ahead.

Mao has insisted that the way is through military conquest. In primitive areas he has clarified this to mean through the use of guerrilla forces and the terrorizing of local peasants into aiding or at least not resisting the invaders.

Khrushchev, while musing peaceful coexistence, really is thinking about the establishment of coalition governments which serve to neutralize countries, infiltrations and finally a complete take-over almost by default. Actually both theories were put to work in the conquest of China by the Reds and it is difficult to say which was the most influential.

Mao's theory was successful in the fight against the French in Viet Nam. But since that time his tactics have met with resistance. The United States acceptance of the challenge of guerrilla warfare, our training of para-military forces, our use of napalm and helicopters, have at least halted the Viet Cong drive in South Viet Nam. How successful our aid will be in the long run, considering a not completely popular political control in South Viet Nam, is impossible to say.

Meanwhile, Khrushchev's theory is being tried in Laos. As the Communist pressure builds up in Laos, with assassinations, attacks by the Pathet-Lao, and demands for new conferences to remedy the situation, there are charges in Western aligned Thailand of Red activity in the north and dangers to the Malayan federation. And in Indonesia, silly Sukarno, convinced that he can handle the Communists, probably will bring them into his government with the belief that he can use Communist assistance in his own grand design for Asian mastery.

Communism follows no set pattern despite the theories. It profits by the mistakes of others and thrives on disorder and confusion. There is a lot of both in Southeast Asia. It Laos falls, which country will be next and which plan will be used?

Liquor Price Controls

The perennial business disputes of the liquor industry of the state again have been transplanted to the floor of the legislature in the form of a measure ardently supported by one faction and as angrily opposed by another that would put the state government in the business of enforcing price controls for bottled spirits.

We never have been able to understand why the liquor wholesalers, and to some extent other members of this trade, have acquired the habit of appealing to the legislature to adjudicate disputes.

Over the period of our own observations of legislative proceedings at Madison, there has been more time spent in such selfish intramural fights than on a hundred topics of more legitimate public interest and concern.

This fight over the demand of some dealers for state police protection in the enforcement of their pricing designs is somewhat more absurd than some others, however, because of the argument made on its behalf.

If liquor becomes too cheap, these men said solemnly, without a hint of a grin on their countenances, there will be a danger of intemperate indulgence on the part of the public. Make liquor more expensive, enforce a law against price competition, and there will be fewer drunks, they asserted.

If this is not hypocrisy, the distinction is too fine for many persons to note.

If these dealers are concerned about temperance, this is a strange way of showing it. There are simpler and far more effective means they could offer for that objective, but we have not noted that the liquor lobby is anxious to back them.

This is about as implausible a proposition as having the state motor vehicle department control the price of cars, because cars have an involvement with the problem of highway safety. The legislature should make short shrift of this measure, and all those remotely resembling it. Sometimes we have the uneasy suspicion that the numerous liquor lobbyists at the capitol sponsor these absurdities as a means of showing their dues-paying clients how clever and industrious they are, rather than for any reasons of economic logic.

Machine Harvesting in New Fields

Most of us in Wisconsin are familiar now with the tractor-drawn combines which have revolutionized the harvesting of the pea crop. One of the nation's largest canners estimates 70 per cent of the peas it will can and freeze this year will be machine-harvested, compared with 10 per cent five years ago. The cost is about half that under former methods.

But more ingenious new devices are about to invade the fruit and vegetable harvesting field. There's a power "drill" which picks blueberries, and a wind machine for harvesting grapefruit plus an electronically controlled asparagus cutter. A snap bean harvester is rapidly taking over from hand pickers.

About 250 blueberry "drills" already are in use. Compressed air powers hand-held drills and four vibrating aluminum fingers on the drill shape the plant, causing ripe berries to fall into a canvas catcher, while greener berries remain on the bush.

The asparagus cutter is a four-wheeled self-propelled machine. An electric eye on the front is set at six inches above the ground. When the eye's electric beam is broken by a stalk that tall, one of seven piano wires held between two tiny arms swings down to cut the stalk at ground level. Shorter stalks are bypassed and given time to grow.

Engineers have been working on a pickle picker for a number of years but haven't solved the problem yet of how to pick cucumbers which are right for pickling and not damaging the vines so that small cukes will mature. They're taking a new tack now, experimenting with new strains of cukes which will all mature about the same time so that they can be harvested like peas.

Not only the cost but the uncertainty of field labor has motivated these developments. The present law under which Mexican laborers enter the U. S. to pick crops at comparatively low wages expires at the end of this year. And many growers fear it won't be extended or will be so amended as to raise labor costs. In fact, growers already complain that substituting minimum hourly rates for the former piece-work system has severely reduced these laborers' incentive.

Automation is just at its infancy in the harvesting of fruits and vegetables.

Government Financed Competition

A plywood veneer mill at Happy Camp in northern California had been closed down for three months. The veneer industry has been having a tough time meeting Japanese competition which has driven prices down 14 per cent. Now a new firm has purchased and reopened the mill.

Competitors are up in arms, not at the new firm, but at the federal Area Redevelopment Administration, which loaned the new operators 65 per cent of the capital they needed at 4 per cent interest.

ARA defended the loan by saying 40 jobs were restored which had been lost when the veneer plant closed.

This is part of a four-year program begun in 1961 under the Kennedy Administration. The ARA has classified 996 areas in the U. S. and its possessions as "depressed." Loans and grants totalling $84.8 millions have been approved for projects in those areas. ARA says that when the projects are completed it will have created 35,000 new jobs.

But a lot of the projects have stirred up considerable controversy, like Happy Camp, or the new tissue mill here in Wisconsin at Tomahawk.

Established businesses in the same field fail to understand why the government finances new competition. And in most cases the government is stepping in to reactivate businesses which already have proved unsuccessful.

Looking Backward

Motor 'Gives Devil His Due'

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for April 23, 1963.

The Crescent made its appearance again in an entirely new dress, looking bright and new. But its clean appearance was defiled by its copperhead tendencies and opposition to the Government.

We have searched it from beginning to end for something like evidence of support or loyalty to the Government and have failed almost entirely. On the other hand, we have found much that we call questionable loyalty, as its selections (reprinted) from the Chicago Tribune, etc., will prove.

Its whining over the Republican victory in this city and the Republican gains in the County, and its endeavors to create sympathy for itself by conveying the idea that it has sustained heavy loss by the fire, when it was fully insured, is in keeping with its former course.

We are in favor of "giving the devil his due," but think if it should receive its deserts it would not meet with quite so good success in humbugging our citizens, especially some of our Republicans, by its smooth-tongued flattery and fulsome puffery, even if they are backed up by personal importunities.

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, April 16, 1938.

Robin Smith and Jack Lemburg, both of Neenah, were appearing with the Harestoot Club of the University of Wisconsin. The production, "Let's Talk Turkey," was to be given the next

Science Lures American Climbers to Mt. Everest

BY TOM HENNINGAW

AP News Service Writer
Men, it appears, no longer climb mountains simply because they're there.

An American team of 18 mountaineers and 36 Sherpa porters currently is inching its way to the 29,000-foot summit of Mt. Everest, the highest in the world, more in the spirit of science than adventure.

The team, led by Swiss-born Norman G. Dyhrenfurth of Santa Monica, Calif., includes a psychologist, a sociologist and a glaciologist — and they're working at their trades, too.

Mt. Everest has been climbed before, at least twice, possibly three times.

A New Zealander, Sir Edmund P. Hillary, and a Sherpa, Tenzing Norkay, members of a British expedition, first reached the summit on May 29, 1963, on man's eighth recorded assault on the peak.

Red Chinese Claim

A Swiss expedition also reached the top in 1956 and a Red Chinese team claimed to have conquered the heights in 1960, leaving behind a plaster bust of Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung.

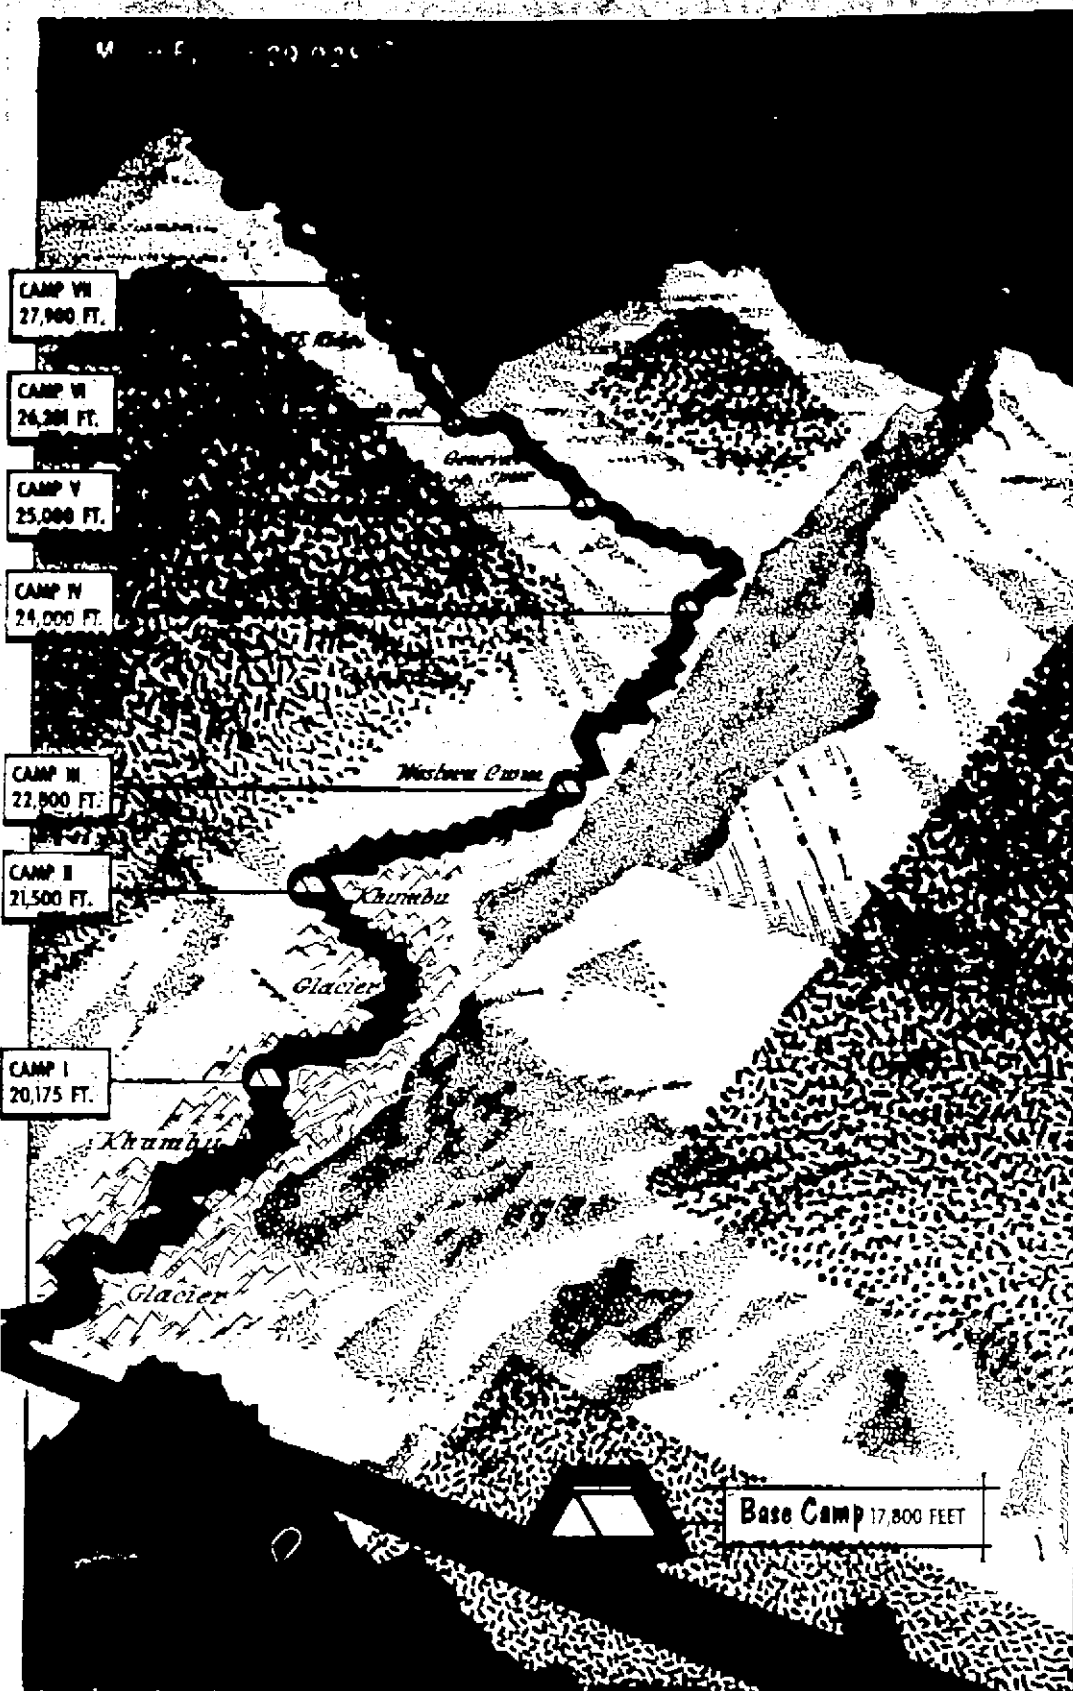

It remains for the Americans to stage the most massive attack on the roof of the world. Sometime during May, the best climbing season in the high Himalayas, they hope to conquer not only Everest but its sister peaks, Lhotse, 27,923 feet, fourth highest in the world, and Nuptse, 25,726 feet.

And, even while climbing, the American team has transformed Everest's ice and rock slopes into a vast laboratory for scientific study.

Dr. James T. Lester Jr., a clinical psychologist from Berkeley, Calif., is studying the behavior of the climbers themselves while they are under the extreme stress and stimulus conditions of high altitude climbing.

Study Social Relations

Dr. Richard M. Emerson, a University of Cincinnati sociologist, is investigating the social relations of the "isolated, highly motivated group under stress conditions."

Dr. William Siri, the deputy leader and a University of California physicist, is studying the physiological responses of the climbers as they reach and surpass the limits of endurance.

Dr. Maynard M. Miller of Michigan State is collecting samples of snowfall up to 40 years old and also studying the effects of climatic changes on the massive Khumbu Glacier, the gateway to Everest.

Barry C. Bishop of Washington, a staff member of the National Geographic Society, will study solar radiation at 28,000 feet, the highest such studies have ever been made on the surface of the earth.

Travel Old Route

The American climbers are following essentially the same route traveled by their British and Swiss predecessors, moving up the mountain by way of a series of camps.

The base camp has been established on the Khumbu Glacier at 17,800 feet. The base camp height is surpassed by only five peaks on the North American continent.

From the base camp, the trail leads up the Khumbu Glacier to the Western Cwm (pronounced kum), a vast ice bowl nestled between the three peaks, Everest, Lhotse and Nuptse.

Right now, according to plan, the climbers are busy establishing camps on Lhotse Face, 22,800 to 25,000 feet high, and reconnoitering campsites up to 27,900 feet on Everest's Southeast Ridge.

Two-Man Teams

The assaults on the 29,028-foot peak of Everest are scheduled to begin May 2 by three teams of two men each. Simultaneously, other two man teams will attempt to scale Lhotse and Nuptse.

Even though all three peaks have been scaled before, the American expedition's chances of success are rated only about 50-50. Conquered mountains retain the hazards that can thwart even the best of climbers.

The Dyhrenfurth expedition started out with 19 American climbers. One John E. Breitenbach of Jackson, Wyo., was killed in a massive icefall last month even before the expedition was fairly started.

Wisconsin Report

Broadening Tax Base State's Big Problem

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A letter from a small town school administrator in a section of the state with a comparatively low tax base puts into focus the political problems that will be involved in any attempt to alter the state's school aid program, as some times suggested by legislators in the current state finance dilemma.

Wyngaard

Because the present school aid formula was designed in a previous decade at least in part to encourage local districts to consolidate into a more effective pattern of school service, any change now that would reduce the ratio of state support would be a betrayal, he argues with some effect.

But more important, this worried administrator notes that a 20 per cent cutback of state support, which is a distinct possibility in view of the deadlock brewing in the capitol about the new budget and a new tax bill, would be the equivalent of a 4.5 mill tax levy in his own district.

"Remember," he writes solemnly, "these are the same property taxes that the legislature, the department of public instruction and local officials promised to minimize when we encouraged reorganization."

"These are the same educational services that were promised the children of these people, to lure them into a reorganized school district."

FRILLS? This educator also shows his resentment about the suggestion in some legislative quarters, as reported in this space recently, that the increasing ratio of state support has led some local school districts to add services or to spend at levels that they would not authorize if they were relying solely upon their local tax resources.

Whatever may be going on elsewhere in the higher valuation territories, that is not true in his locality, he asserts earnestly. Indeed, his qualitative standards remain such that he has his difficulties in retaining teachers, who leave for the industrial communities whenever they have the opportunity, he laments.

These are persuasive arguments, for the most part, and they document what was said here in the first instance—that it will be extremely difficult to reduce the level of state support by legislative action, whatever the provocation in looming state treasury deficits. The average legislator won't like to put on his own record a vote that will be interpreted by his constituents against their interests—ignoring for the moment that the school lobby as such is the most formidable in the business.

PRODDING

What this attentive school manager apparently does not perceive, however, is that the time is approaching when his school aid budget, like so many other favorites in the state's big bundle of biennial appropriations, cannot be financed without an expansion of the state tax base.

It is a condition and not a theory that confronts the state.

The Mail Arrives

In the Nick of Time

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The house door banged shut and locked Mrs. Willard T. Lovell out.

Ten chilly minutes later a letter arrived from her brother, Watson H. Wyman of Seattle, who had visited her recently. In it was her spare house key.

as a celebrated politician once put it in another context.

There is no serious objection in politics, on either side of the aisle, to continuing a ratio of state participation in local school costs that now amounts to about one quarter of the whole. But the formula is so written that with the phenomenally increasing school enrollments, steadily increasing definitions of minimum quality standards, and a static or sometimes shrinking local tax base, it can no longer be sustained without a basic alteration in state taxing methods.

The school aid issue does not stand alone. Involved also are the university's ardent hopes about expanding faculty and plant to handle armies of new students, the welfare department's anxiety about staffing and building more institutions for state wards and a host of other appeals.

How will they be paid for? It is a tedious, repetitive, angry question, but it is at the heart of virtually all Wisconsin politics today.

Freedom to Sing Jeopardized by Proposed Law

From Cedar Rapids (Ia.) Gazette

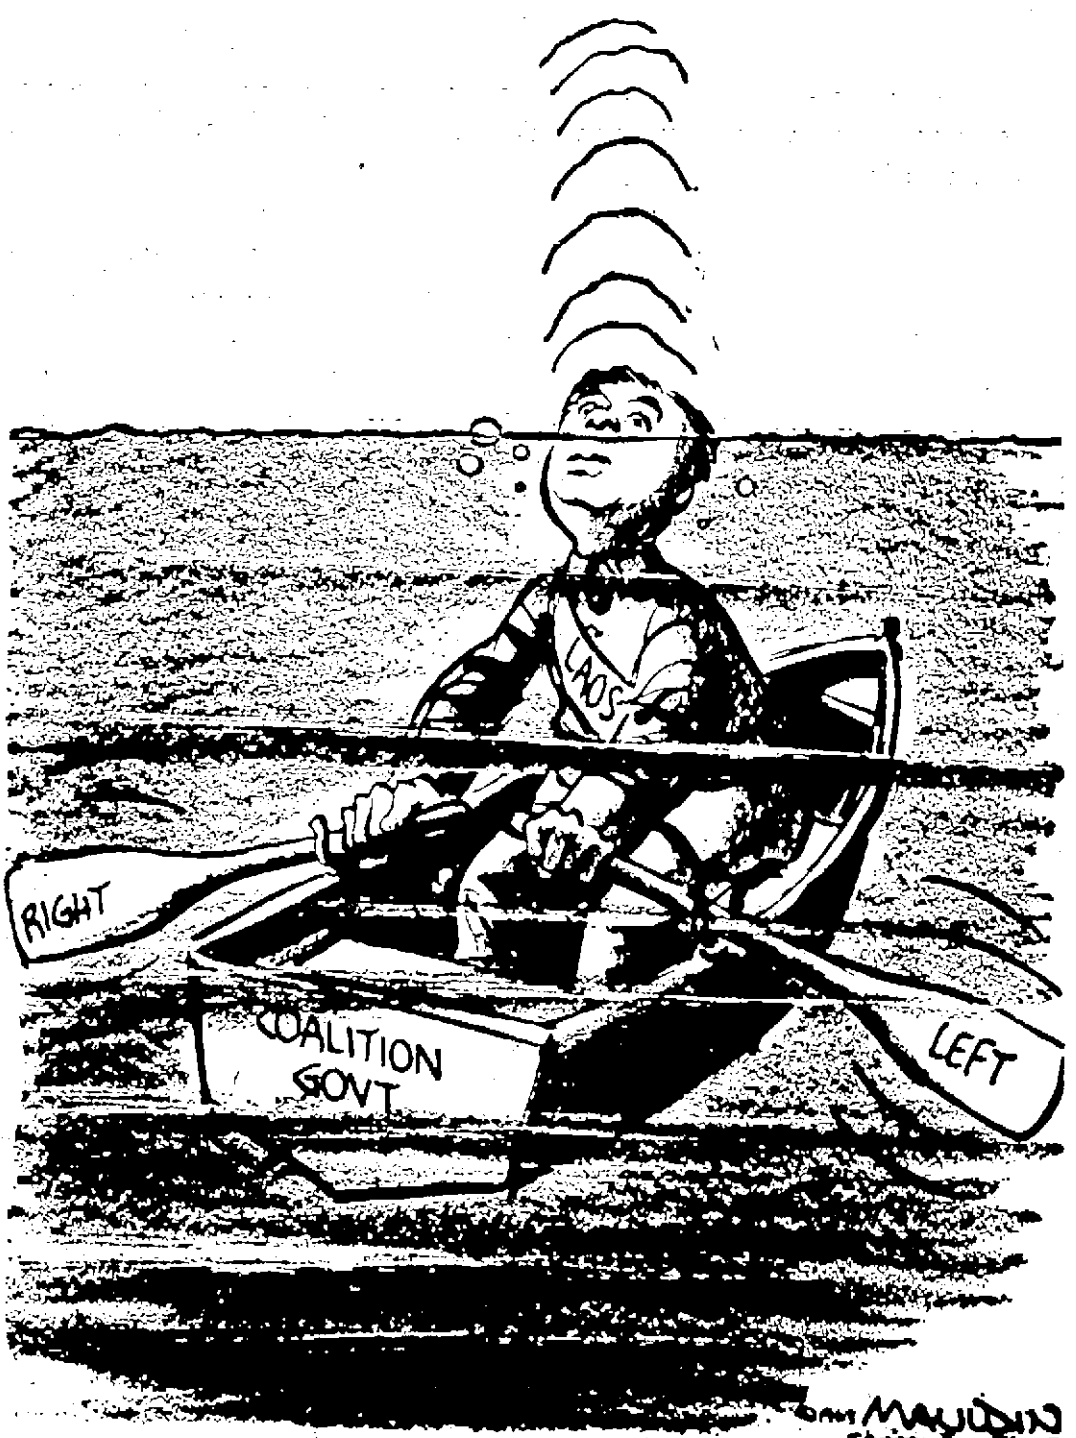

A bill to establish officially the "Star-Spangled Banner's" exact words and music is slated for the hopper during the current session of congress. Rep. J. T. Broyhill, a Virginia Republican, says he will introduce it, with the song's perfect form to be determined by spokesmen for 46 musical organizations.

We had not been aware of any great dispute over variations in the national anthem. But if 46 viewpoints can be forged into one, maybe congress ought to go along with such uncommon harmony.

There is one thing any law about the land of the free's official song had better not include, though: A penalty clause that hampers anyone's freedom to still add touches of his own, or that makes it a crime to sing the thing off-key.

Gen. Eisenhower says today's kids aren't "called on" to do chores. He's wrong. They're called, but they can't hear — because they're using dad's power mower to cut the neighbor's lawn for pay.

Terror Track Team Wins 3-Way Meet

ed one. Sophomore Russ Kamietz tied Vandy's Giese at 10-6 in the pole vault. It was the Cardinals' only taste of first-place glory. Paul Bredlau, one of the Cards' chief hopes, missed the meet because of a class trip.

Neenah's first places, in addition to Neubauer's win, were produced by Jim Hammill, in the mile; Hollis Bliss, 220; and the sprint medley and the 880-yard relay units.

AHS showed considerable strength in the field events — a weak department in recent years. The Terrors didn't "lose" any of the five field events. They out-pointed their rivals in four of them and tied Neenah in the fifth (the broad jump).

The well-balanced AHS team grabbed a first or second in every event but the mile. Neenah failed to score a first or second in but two events — the high jump and the pole vault.

The win inaugurated the Polar Bears' season while St. Mary, scheduled to entertain Oshkosh in two games today, has a 3-4 slate.

Hortonville's 2-0 win over St. Mary was a 3-4 slate. Hortonville's 2-0 win over St. Mary was a 3-4 slate.

The eagerly-awaited Bunn-Tom duels in the half-mile also had the spectators in a lather. The Rockets' Farin led for the first 400, with Bunn right on his heels. By the time they reached the backstretch curve, Farin had moved three strides ahead. Bunn, the converted quarter-miler, then exploded past his rival and roared through the final 100 yards to win comfortably.

Bunn also ran a sterling anchor leg in the 880-yard relay — making up considerable ground — but was unable to pull it out.

Takes Charge
Jerry Bishop gave AHS the lead on the first leg of the 880 relay, but Neenah's Jim Rammer took charge on the second leg and gave his team a decisive lead at the half-way mark. Walker and Bliss finished it up. Larry Blom ran the first leg for the Rockets.

The Rockets had no trouble in the sprint medley after Jim Panch ran an exceptionally strong opening 400 leg. Blom (220), Dan King (220) and Roberts (880) wrapped up the victory.

Bishop and Bliss traded victories in the dashes. Bishop won the century with a burst of speed in the final 25 yards. Bliss whisked in front in the 220 and stayed there.

AHS coached by Keith Kohlman, and Neenah, directed by Harold Carl, collide again next Friday in a dual meet.

Key GOP Men Revolt on Re-Districting

Senate Group May Doom First Effort in 33 Years

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON—A revolt of key Republicans in the state senate against a congressional re-apportionment bill, passed with surprising ease in the Republican-controlled assembly two weeks ago, may doom that first serious effort to reshape congressional districts in 33 years.

Reports from a protracted Republican caucus in the senate have indicated that at least half a dozen and probably more of the members of the GOP majority have refused to vote for the bill that was drafted by the assembly Republican leadership and was so carefully drawn that some of the critical assembly Democrats joined in backing it.

It had been fairly certain that if the senate concurred, Gov. Reynolds would have signed the measure, although he has avoided making a public commitment on the question.

Rejection Seen

It is now being predicted freely that the senate committee on governmental affairs, headed by Sen. Leo O'Brien of Green Bay, will recommend rejection of the bill and there is some belief that the committee may hold the measure and thus prevent a show-down on the floor.

If the measure gets to the floor, it is likely that the nominal Republican caucus leaders of the upper house will be obliged to depend on Democratic votes to enact it, which is contrary to the original Republican strategy, intended to destroy the impression that the Democratic party of Wisconsin is the only one concerned with equitable representation arrangements.

The apparent peg upon which some of the senior Republican senators are basing their opposition is the resistance in the first congressional district, usually Republican, the removal of Green county, heavily Republican, from the First to the Second District, which is now held by a Democratic congressman.

Pressure from Republicans of the First District is so intense that Sen. Morton of Kenosha, Carr of Janesville and Roseleip of Darlington are already counted in opposition. Others are reported to be O'Brien, LaFave of Oconto, Keppler of Sheboygan, Smith of Wausau and Miller of Richland Center. With so many defections, the Republican leadership will be in the embarrassing position of calling for assistance from the Democrats in spite of the nominal two to one superiority of the Republicans in the upper house.

The Green County problem could be resolved with a simple amendment, except that it is likely that Gov. Reynolds would thereupon veto the proposal, as did Gov. Nelson two years ago. The Green County objection, according to reliable reports, is being used to disguise other objections to the re-districting measure, including the reservations of some rural-minded members on any form of re-apportionment of congressional or legislative districts.

May Return to Court

The governor has publicly declared that he will return the issue to the courts for adjudication. In the event of a legislative default, but there are some of the conservative Republicans who feel that risk is worth taking since it will be difficult to show that the Wisconsin districts, congressional or legislative, are as far out of balance as those of many other states of the country.

Assembly Republican leaders are furious, meanwhile, about what they privately regard as a lack of good faith on the part of their Republican colleagues in the senate on the re-apportionment issue. They wrote the bill and passed it, they grumble, with the full knowledge of the state senate, but without a hint that the senate would balk when the measure reached that house.

Observers are convinced that if the legislative Republicans are unable to agree on the comparatively easy problem of congressional re-districting, the cause of legislative re-apportionment, which is more complex and more difficult because legislators' own seats are at stake, will probably be lost this year also.

Village Warns About Cutting Terrace Trees

KIMBERLY — Village residents have been asked not to prune trees on terraces. The tree program is financed by the community under a planned program of pruning, according to Eugene Hietpas, street department foreman.

The village has contracted for care of the trees on a regular program. The work is done by tree experts. Attempts by home owners to prune trees could result in serious damage and perhaps loss of the tree, Hietpas noted. Those who want terrace trees pruned should contact the street department foreman, he said.

A supply of grass seed for use on terraces has been received at the village clerk's office and persons needing seed to repair terraces damaged through construction work can pick up seed without cost at the office.

Power Firm Seeks Okay of $572,135 Line

138,000 Volt Line Will Serve Area West of Appleton

The Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. has applied to the Wisconsin Public Service Commission for authority to construct and operate a 138,000 volt electric transmission line west of Appleton. The estimated cost of the 11 1/2 mile line is $572,135.

The commission will investigate the application and hold a public hearing on it at 10 a.m. May 1 in the State Office Building, Madison.

The line will be supported on steel towers and will run north-west from the site of a future substation on Cold Spring Road one-half mile south of County Trunk BB to another site of a future substation in the Town of Ellington one mile northeast of Stebensville. The interconnection point will be at the Butte des Morts switching station in the Town of Menasha.

The line will have two circuits each designed for operation at 138,000 volts but to be operated initially at 34,500 volts.

The purpose of the proposed transmission line is to provide for an anticipated increased use of energy through the western portion of the company's service area. The western portion which includes the New London and Clintonville area is now served from a 34,500 volt transmission loop.

Construction will start soon after the commission's decision if the line is approved, a company spokesman said.

Menasha Man Dies of Smoke Inhalation

OSHKOSH — State Sen. Jerris Leonard said and attack Leonard (Rep. Milw.) proposed spending even at the charge of giving local municipalities the power to levy their own taxes on any form and then eliminate New jobs must be created in most of the shared state aids as the state and this cannot be done a means of leading Wisconsin out of its economic wilderness.

Speaking Friday night before a joint meeting of the Northern Industrial Publications Council and the Wisconsin Industrial Editors Association, Sen. Leonard said he would be inclined to go along with permitting local government units to levy income and sales taxes if necessary.

We must shake up the shared economic dilemma in which Wisconsin finds itself, Leonard felt the first he said is an ever increasing dependent age group and the second is the shared tax and aids system.

Since 1950 the dependent age group — those under 20 — has been growing at an alarming rate compared to the income producing group — those from 21 to 64, he said.

In 1950 there were 75 people in the dependent group for every 100 producers. In 1960 there were 97 dependents for every 100 producers and by 1970 the dependents will have outstripped the income producers 112 to 100.

His result, he said, is costing the taxpayers an ever increasing amount to operate the schools. Ninety per cent of the income producers' state tax dollar is being spent to care for dependent age groups or are in that group of people who are either mentally or physically infirmed.

The Milwaukee Republican charged the shared tax law has a bit in inflationary gummuck. Lake are not shared on the basis of local needs, he said, out on the needs of the state.

Leonard urged a much closer look be taken at all public spending. I am certain that in my lower school district the basic aids paid to this district could be eliminated completely and the school district budget pared down to the extent of these aids.

He hastened to add he did not mean to imply there are no areas in the state where property valuation is so low that some state help is needed to provide equal opportunity for school children.

Leonard then threw out a third unponderable cause the emigration of college graduates out of the state. In 1962 we graduated 443 engineers from the University of Wisconsin. Only 99 of these graduates actually stayed in Wisconsin and took employment with Wisconsin firms.

He questioned the spending for the university. There is no applied research at the university that is benefiting industry, he charged. I believe we are doing it up in Wisconsin. I'm not opposed to a great University of Wisconsin — if we can afford it.

The City of Milwaukee is the largest contractor of carpenters and plumbers in the state, Sen. Leonard said, and the University of Wisconsin is second largest. Why? he asked.

The entire spending structure could be reviewed, he felt, with less emphasis on building construction and more on teacher salaries.

Police Believe Walter Whitman Was Smoking in Bed

OSHKOSH — Walter A. Whitman, 38, route 2, Menasha, died at 4:30 a.m. today as the result of smoke inhalation received in a fire in his apartment at the Barn Tavern on County Trunk P Friday morning.

Winnebago County police reported today that Whitman is believed to have been smoking in bed as the bedding and mattress had caught fire and there was considerable smoke in the building.

Phillip Mitchell, 38, a neighbor, told county police he had been awakened about 6:30 a.m. Friday by what he thought was a dog barking. His wife went to the window and noticed smoke pouring out of the Barn Tavern.

Mitchell then got up and saw Whitman standing by the east window in the tavern building with his head out of the window.

Smoke Was Dense
Mitchell said he ran over to the building and opened the door and crawled a short distance into the home but the smoke was so dense he could not get in very far. He said Whitman told him he was unable to crawl out the window.

Mitchell then ran back to his house and got his son, Mark, 16, and a hammer. The two broke the window and pulled Whitman out through the window. Whitman was coughing and was having a difficult time breathing. Mitchell told county police.

Mrs. Mitchell called the Town of Menasha Fire Department. County police officers took Whitman to Theda Clark Hospital, giving him oxygen on the way. Police were unable to question Whitman because he lapsed into unconsciousness and died at the hospital at 4:35 a.m. today.

The building is owned by the Joseph Tennesen estate. Whitman's brother, Raymond, lives in Appleton.

NLRB Sets Union Election For Post-Crescent Workers

A union representation election for the Post-Crescent's 78 mechanical department's production employees will be conducted May 1 from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m.

The election will be supervised by personnel from the National Labor Relations Board and will be conducted in the company cafeteria.

The election is necessary so that the independent Post-Crescent Craftsmen's Union can obtain NLRB certification.

Three Choices
Workers in the composing, engraving, perforator and proofreading departments will have two choices on their ballots. They can vote to have the PCCU represent them or no union representation at all.

Those in the press and stereotype departments have three choices. They will vote for the PCCU, the International Printing Pressman's Union or no union at all.

The IPPU has petitioned to represent the press and stereotype employees.

The independent PCCU has been the bargaining agent for employees for 42 years.

It sought NLRB certification when that step became necessary under the law. But the request was held up while the NLRB held hearings after the International Typographical Union sought to organize the production workers. The ITU has dropped its request.
